

IMPORTANT MEETING

What Is Happening To Our New Schools?

EDA Director Will Answer Community's Questions

The Economic Development Authority (EDA) is responsible for buying the land for new schools, and supervising the construction program. At this meeting, the Director of the EDA will tell us:

- What is the progress on evaluating and acquiring each of the high priority sites for Newark?
- Will school sites that are under intense development pressure in the north and east ward be saved?
- Will the RFP for architects require that they meet with the community "project team" for each new school?
- What about the current health and safety needs at schools? When will that important work be completed for Newark schools?

Be there to show state policy makers that we care about the children of today – and tomorrow.
